Remedy is often the most important topic for advocates to address during a labor arbitration case. But, it is an issue frequently avoided by parties during arbitration.

Join the American Arbitration Association® (AAA®) to hear an expert AAA Labor Arbitrator and two experienced Labor practitioners explore the principles of remedy, the importance of focusing on remedy during the early stages of an arbitration case and how a well-crafted remedy can be persuasive. The speakers will also discuss:

- Examining monetary and non-monetary remedy
- Requesting remedy and creative approaches to resolving remedy issues
- Implementing a challenging remedy
- Retaining jurisdiction regarding remedy by arbitrators and related challenges

By attending, you will gain insight and best practice tips on how to use remedy to shape the purpose and strategy of an arbitration proceeding and settlement discussion.

Who Should Attend?
Labor and management representatives including union representatives, human resources professionals, attorneys, shop stewards, business agents, and individuals who assist advocates in the preparation and presentation of evidence for labor arbitration cases will find the information in this program invaluable.
